NEWS RELEASE

The County and H.J. McFarland Home Celebrates Health & Safety Milestone

Picton, ON - The County of Prince Edward is continuing its focus on health and safety in the workplace and in doing so recognizing its recent achievements. At a special ceremony on January 24, 2008, Mayor Leo P. Finnegan met with employees of the H.J. McFarland Home in recognition of their recent success in achieving one year without a lost time injury. This exciting milestone occurred on November 15, 2007. Employees and members of the Joint Health and Safety Committee have continued their commitment to health and safety by having regular safety meetings and training and most importantly responding to employee's health and safety concerns.

"We place a very high priority on the health and safety of our employees," said Mayor Leo P. Finnegan. "On behalf of Council I would like to congratulate the employees of the McFarland Home on their safe work practices and on this significant achievement."

The County wishes to remind its employees to stay focused on health and safety at work, at home and on the road. "Don't Learn Safety by Accident."
